BAHAMAS PUBLIC FORECAST FOR TONIGHT, TOMORROW AND THE NEXT SIX (6) DAYS, ISSUED BY THE BAHAMAS DEPARTMENT OF METEOROLOGY AT 6:00 P.M. EDT, Friday, March 27, 2026. THE NEXT SCHEDULED FORECAST WILL BE ISSUED AT 6:00 A.M. EDT TOMORROW.

WARNING IN EFFECT:	There are no public warnings in effect at this time. For additional marine information, please view our Marine Forecast on our website, met.gov.bs.
GENERAL SITUATION:	Weak troughing near the Southeast Bahamas will gradually dissipate later tonight allowing shower chances to diminish over that area into Saturday. Generally stable weather conditions and gentle to moderate winds will prevail elsewhere into tomorrow despite a few passing showers across the Central & Southeast Bahamas. Outlook: A prefrontal trough will move into the Northern Bahamas early Sunday producing widely scattered showers along with possible isolated thunderstorms. The front itself will move into the area later that day bringing additional showers to the Northern & Northwest Bahamas into Monday. At the same time, a strong high pressure system will build immediately behind the front producing fresh to strong breezes with frequent gusts to near gale force and occasional gusts to gale force across the chain of islands persisting into next week. The front will then stall across the Central Bahamas by Tuesday with gradual clearing expected across the northern half of the country.
SPECIAL WEATHER NOTES:	Rip Currents: There remains a low to moderate risk of rip currents affecting all Atlantic and Atlantic-exposed beaches of the Bahamas. Beachgoers and swimmers in these areas should continue to exercise caution. From Saturday evening swimmers in the Northern & Northwest Bahamas should refrain from entering the water.
